SATURDAY JUNE 10, 1911

Keep Going!—When one task is finished, jump into another. Don't hesitate. Don't falter. Don't waver. Don't wait. Keep going. For activity breeds ambition, energy, progress, power. And hesitation breeds idleness, laziness, shiftlessness, sloth. Don't dawdle in the hope that inspiration will strike you. Inspiration is more likely to strike a busy man than an idle one.—System.

Kill the mosquito or it may kill you.

May Carrie Nation rest in peace. She lacked that phase of human happiness during her life on this earth.

Critics of Cathcart have about as much sense of appreciation for good work in the courts as a hog has of high art.

America is ahead again. But the real question of the hour in polo is, whether Honolulu can beat the outside island boys.

China's demand that Mexico pay an indemnity may receive attention by the time the new navy is completed by the Steel Trust.

Half the people in town didn't believe there was a cotton industry till they heard of the fight to destroy insect enemies of the crop.

Fifty years hence the wise heads will be saying, "Oh, if we could only get such a good class of immigrants as they were able to secure in 1911."

Getting together for the better sanitation of Honolulu is another way of investing your time and effort in a hundred per cent dividend proposition.

Senate approval of that loan to Honduras probably means that we'll soon have a new set of fellow citizens coming under the flag from down that way.

The day is not far distant when the College of Hawaii will lead as the institution to which the students in the college preparatory department of our Hawaii schools will apply for admission in largest numbers.

Now that the troops are being ordered home from the border it might be good practice to send a larger number to Honolulu to become accustomed to getting there quickly by water as well as by land.

Since only home production is wanted for representatives of the government traveling abroad, why didn't they equip Conkling and Hemmaway with a lunch basket from the Young Hotel so they would not have to put up at the Belmont.

The Mormon church is due for a season of free advertising, whether the Trust busters get any information out of it or not. And advertising is free.

ing always means increased business in all the departments of human endeavor.

Why is it that the Governor did not respond to the popular request for a holiday on Monday as readily as he did to the delegation of business men is the business man the only one who is supposed to have a show in the executive chamber?

Of course there are a number of influential people who hated to see the public schools get all the money they needed, and these people are now more or less quietly at work striving to discredit the school system. They are known and understood.

"Come, let us reason," says the Site Shifters' organ one day. The next, it responds with its usual dignity. "Aw, youse fellers don't know what yer talkin' about." All of which shows that the Site Shifters are up a tree and all they want to do is "holier."

Economy is a great thing when properly applied. Conkling took Hemmaway along at a thousand dollars a month and expenses, whereas Marston Campbell took only himself and his automobile. If this is not a demonstration of the patronage of home products, what is?

Just because you may have become used to it, is no reason why you should longer tolerate the presence of the mosquito pest that menaces the prosperity of this city. Prosperity and the mosquito cannot remain permanent residents of Honolulu these days, no matter what the past may have been.

While the Sanitary Commission is thinking the matter over, Mott-Smith has to be and is constantly on the job. Incessantly keeping at it is the only certain method of protecting Honolulu from port quarantines that cost the people thousands of dollars a day, and losses that continue long after the quarantine is raised.

Mr. Keefe didn't like the Kauai system of homesteading as worked out at Kalaheo and now to be repeated in other sections. Mr. Garfield did. But it matters little whether these gentlemen approved or not, the system is one that works in this Territory. It fits the case and the Governor does well to work out land problems under it as frequently as possible.

Judge Mathewman has made faces at the Hawaii public school system because he could not find enough men in his district to conform to the present rule that a jurymen must be able to speak and read the English language. The Judge should look up his dates and figure how long the children who were taught English exclusively have been out of school. He seems to think that a child should quit school today and be ready to serve on the jury tomorrow. But the Judge is wrong.

lively fight in the republican convention. But there is no indication that they will do it. Certainly they show no signs of organizing to that end. I talked a few hours ago to one of the most widely known insurgents in the house. He was just starting for New York to call on Roosevelt. Roosevelt writes Nebraskans. "I see that Roosevelt has written to friends in Nebraska," I said by way of small talk. "That the mention of his name for the presidency is most embarrassing to him and he begs it may be stopped."

"Well, he has to write something of that sort to remind the people he is alive," was the rejoinder of my insurgent friend.

Somewhat dazed, because I thought that in the general republican drift away from Roosevelt the insurgents won't be mentioned in the convention."

That is the way it goes today in Washington. Few, if any, of the Republicans want Taft again, but the insurgents, who alone could raise the colors about which the anti-Taft forces might rally, are split into hostile camps, incapable of harmony. The sentiment on the Republican side of both House and Senate is that it is Taft by default in the convention and Taft in defeat at the election.

On the Democratic side it is still Champ Clark, Judson Harmon and Woodrow Wilson about whom the fires of controversy burn most fiercely. In the country as a whole Governor Wilson is at this moment undoubtedly the leading aspirant. This is not the case in Washington, however, particularly not the case about the capital. A shrewd Senator, wholly uncommitted to any candidate, said to me the other day:

"You will find that Wilson will be the popular candidate. His newspaper campaign has been admirably managed, and in his tours he has made a multitude of friends. In meeting people he is genial without being effusive and tactful without appearing to be overcautious. But he will not be the candidate of the politicians, the men who make up conventions and elect delegates. Wilson is too new, too untried for this political element. Believing victory assured with any good candidate, they would rather have one who 'knows politics' and is used to handling men than one who knows Greek and has spent his life handling schoolboys. Among this class you will find 'Uncle Jud' Harmon the favorite."

HENNING COCKETT.

The wedding of Louis Henning and Sarah Cockett was a most delightful occasion last Saturday evening. It took place at the residence of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Henning. The rooms were beautifully decorated, and the ceremony took place under a marriage bell. Christopher Cockett was the best man, and Christabel Cockett was the bridesmaid. The Rev. J. Knox Bodel and his assistant were the officiating clergymen. Music was furnished by a volunteer orchestra. A bountiful supper was furnished for the numerous guests on the lawn, under the electric lights.—Maui News.

ALFALFA SUCCESS.

Hanalei, June 4.—Manager W. F. Sanborn of the Princeville Plantation, reports success in his experiment in growing alfalfa. He met with some difficulty in getting a stand as much of it was destroyed by cut worms. The yield at present, averages about half a ton per acre for every cutting which takes place every thirty days. Manager Sanborn is so pleased with the result that he contemplates sowing quite an acreage on the upper lands.—Garden Island.

PRISONERS TO WORK IN PARKS

A misunderstanding among the supervisors started a report that Harry Murray and Sam Dwight had fallen out over the disposition of the county prisoners during working hours, but his report turns out to be only partly true. Murray, it seems, saw some prisoners working on sidewalks. As chairman of the police committee, he takes charge of the disposition of prisoners, and was surprised to see the prisoners doing sidewalk work. Sam Dwight, chairman of the road committee, it appears, understood that the prisoners could be used for this, and ordered them at work on the roads and sidewalks.

TAFT ACCEPTED BY POLITICIANS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 19.—When action lags in senate and house political Washington turns to the discussion of presidential possibilities. This is particularly true just now, when the lines are being formed for and against candidate of either party. In the republican party there seems to be a general resignation to the idea of the renomination of Taft. "Resignation" is the only word to express the attitude of the party's representatives here. There is neither hearty enthusiasm for him nor yet a healthy opposition. One might think that the insurgents whom Taft fought and who fought him might put up a
